Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Much of England and Wales will be cooler and cloudier than today, although any early rain on the hills will soon peter out. Northeast Scotland will also be cloudy. Elsewhere there will be warm sunshine. That brisk easterly breeze which has been cooling us down lately will reduce tomorrow afternoon.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
There will be very little rain around over the coming days. The west and southwest will stay generally dry with warm sunshine. Colder, cloudier weather further north is likely to extend south across remaining parts. Some rather grey drizzly weather will encroach from the North Sea into north-east Scotland.
