Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Saturday morning will start bright for many but heavy and persistent rain in Northern Ireland will spread into western England, Wales and south western Scotland during the morning, accompanied by strong winds. The rain will spread into the east of the country during the afternoon. Northern Scotland will remain brighter with scattered showers in the west.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
There will be sunshine and a few showers on Sunday, heavy in the north and east, and not reaching the far south. It will turn drier and warmer for many into next week, but rain and stronger winds will affect the north-west at times.
