++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Many areas will be largely fine and dry with some bright or sunny spells.
Despite this, there will be showers in places, largely across eastern areas, that may be wintry over higher ground. Even with the sunshine, it will be a rather cold day across Britain with a brisk northeasterly wind.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:
Largely dry with further brightness for many areas but with showers in places, mainly towards the east, with a wintry flavour over higher ground. Turning progressively colder with overnight frost and icy patches and as winds ease, a threat of overnight freezing fog that may be slow to clear.
