++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
The fine conditions will continue across most areas with largely dry conditions and plenty of sunshine through the day. Despite this, patchy rain will affect northern Scotland and it will be breezy across the extreme north and south of Britain. Elsewhere, with lighter winds, it will feel pleasantly warm in the sunshine.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Thursday will stay fine and sunny for most although with patchy rain in the far north and the threat of showers across southwestern England later. After a dry start, many southern parts are at risk of seeing widespread and heavier showers through Friday as the heat builds further.
