

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Sunday 16 Sep 2007

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Generally feeling cooler with northerly winds. Some bright or sunny spells are expected but also scattered showers, perhaps heavy in places. Some more persistent areas of cloud and rain are likely across eastern parts of Britain, especially over southeast England, where it could remain cool and wet for much of the day.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

Most places will be dry on Tuesday with sunny periods and light winds, but strengthening winds, cloud and outbreaks of rain will spread across most of Scotland and N Ireland later. On Wednesday, outbreaks of rain in the north will spread southeast across most parts followed by showers.

(C) Crown Copyright 2007. Published by the Met Office.