Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Rain, strong winds and milder air will move eastwards across the country on Saturday. It will be particularly windy in the north, with gales across Scotland. As the rain clears through the afternoon, sunny spells and blustery showers will develop in the northwest, but it will remain on the cloudy side further south.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Sunday will be mild and windy with some bright spells, but with outbreaks of rain in the north and west. On Monday a band of rain sinks south across the country, being followed by cooler, brighter conditions, with showers in the northwest.
