Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow :
Sunny spells and heavy, thundery showers widespread today, although northern Britain will be rather more cloudy. Brightest, and warm, over eastern England. Tonight, cloud and patchy, light rain will spread southeast across Scotland, N.England and Wales. Cooler, drier conditions will follow this with showers, heavy and thundery at times, ahead of it across England.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
Generally dry, but rather cloudy on Wednesday. The odd patch of light rain around, mainly over eastern England.
Sunny spells and scattered showers for England and Wales on Thursday, but patchy rain across Scotland and N.Ireland will move southeastwards during the day. Temperatures around normal widely.
