Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A generally fine day for much of the UK with some sunshine once any early fog has cleared. However the south coast may see some thicker cloud and outbreaks of rain spread up from the continent at times during the day.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
After a chilly start on Sunday, it will be another largely fine and dry day, with spells of sunshine across the UK. Later on in the day though rain and strong winds will spread into southwestern areas, before spreading across much of the south during Monday. Drier and brighter elsewhere to start on Monday but scattered showers developing later.
