Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A dry and bright day for many places after a cold, frosty start, with central and southern parts seeing more sunshine than on Monday. Cloudier across northeast England and eastern Scotland with isolated showers. Cold everywhere with biting winds in the south, especially along English Channel coasts.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
Staying cold with strong winds persisting, but many places will be dry with the best of the sunshine in western parts of the UK. Thicker cloud may produce isolated wintry showers, mainly in the east, but these could become more frequent across southern parts on Thursday.
