Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Staying generally cloudy with some brighter intervals at times, particularly in the southeast. Outbreaks of rain will affect most parts of the UK with more prolonged spells across Scotland. Through the day, across England and Wales, heavy showers will develop, turning thundery at times.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Unsettled weather will persist into early next week. Heavy, thundery showers, will once again develop, especially in southern and western parts, as outbreaks of rain will affect most of the country, most likely Northern Ireland and Scotland. Skies will remain cloudy with some brightness at times, with lengthy sunny spells developing by Monday afternoon.
