Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be dry with good spells of sunshine for many. Light rain in southeast England will gradually clear. However, more cloud and rain will arrive in northern and western parts during the evening and overnight, where the winds will be strengthening.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Rather cloudy with patchy rain across southern England on Thursday, although these will tend to ease. Brighter skies should develop for many during Thursday afternoon, with some blustery showers across northern Scotland. However, further cloud and outbreaks of patchy rain will spread southeastwards overnight and during Friday, with brighter skies and blustery showers following to the north.
