Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
After a cloudy start, sunny intervals will become more widespread as the day goes on. There will be a few showers, including some heavy ones in Scotland. Showers will die out this evening leaving the weather dry and mild overnight. A band of rain, heavy in parts, will move into western UK during the early hours.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Widespread light rain and mist will affect western parts tomorrow. The east will stay mainly dry, but become cloudy, warm and humid. The north will be windy. Tuesday will also start rather grey and murky but brighten up and warm up during the day.
