++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It will be a brighter day on Monday with sunny spells, but still with some scattered showers, these heavy and wintry at times, especially in the north. Rain will spread into the west in the evening. There will still be a brisk wind blowing, which will increase to strong to gale force in western Scotland.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

On Tuesday, wet and very windy for a time with heavy rain sweeping east across most areas, followed by sunshine and squally showers. Wednesday will become mainly dry for many parts during the afternoon after a very showery morning for many western areas.
