++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A chilly start with mist and fog patches lingering through the morning in places, particularly across central parts. Becoming generally brighter with sunny spells developing away from southeast England, where it will remain cloudy with the chance of rain again later. Winds will be light easterly.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Rain and drizzle will spread north, but much of Scotland will remain dry and bright. Mostly cloudy and dull elsewhere with mist and hill fog, but some bright spells developing in the south and west, especially to the lee of high ground in a strengthening easterly breeze.
