Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a cloudy and murky start to the day in the north and east the rain here will become confined to the far northeast during the day, where it'll also be very windy. Showers, occasionally heavy and thundery, will spread into many parts of England and Wales through the day with northern England seeing the best of the sunshine.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:

The showers and rain will become confined to northeastern parts through Wednesday allowing drier and brighter weather to return to most of us. It will feel much fresher over the next couple of days with chilly nights following for many.
