Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:

It will be a chilly start to the day for many areas with fog in places that will be slow to clear through the morning. By the afternoon, most of the country will enjoy warm and sunny conditions once again with winds staying light although patchy rain will affect the far north and cloud will thicken across the west.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

The settled conditions look set to continue throughout the weekend with variable amounts of cloud breaking at times to allow some sunshine by day. Despite this, it will remain chilly overnight with the continued risk of mist and fog patches forming.
