++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Dry and fine for many, although with a few well scattered showers. Wind and rain will spread across many western areas later this afternoon and through the evening, with gales in exposure. Feeling warm in sunnier spells. Rain will spread across all parts overnight, heaviest in the north and west. Windy, especially in the west, but also mild.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Remaining windy throughout the weekend, with gales for some exposed western areas. Otherwise there will be a mixture of bright spells and showers, some of the showers heavy. Brightness will be limited, but most likely across eastern and southeastern parts on Sunday.
