I. HISTORY

A brief history of changes in contents and format between 1st April, 1919, and December, 1949, will be found in the introduction to the British Section for 1st October to 31st December, 1949. On 1st January, 1950, the British and International Sections of the former Report, which had been issued in three sections since 1919, were combined in a single publication, the present Daily Weather Report. At the same time, the third section was published separately with the title of Daily Aerological Record. A number of changes in meteorological codes and specifications were introduced on 1st January, 1955, and incorporated in the Report. Changes in format introduced on 1st July, 1955, provided for the elements of station and ships' observations to be given in the order of the appropriate meteorological code and for some modification of the scales and projections of charts. On 1st January, 1961, the Celsius scale was adopted for reporting surface temperatures. On 1st January, 1967, the metric system was adopted for all references to heights and distances. Certain changes relating to position and wave groups in the Ship-Code were introduced on 1st January, 1968.

2. FORM OF PRESENTATION

(i) Observations.—Pages 1 and 4 of the Daily Weather Report contain reports for the four main hours of observation from a representative number of stations in Great Britain and Ireland which provide full reports together with a selection of reports from ocean weather stations for the same hours. In addition, Beaufort letters (Table 20), mainly describing precipitation, are given for each of the four six-hourly periods, together with reports of maximum and minimum temperature, sunshine, rainfall and state of ground (Table 13), in respect of the land stations listed. Explanations of the codes and specifications used are given below.

(ii) Charts.—Page 2 contains a chart of the weather in a large part of the northern hemisphere for mid-day of the previous day. Page 3 contains charts of slightly larger scale, for the British Isles and Western Europe, for 1800 h. of the previous day and for 0000 h and 0600 h on the day of issue.

2. FORM OF PRESENTATION (continued)

(iii) General Synoptic Development.—Below the weather charts on page 3 will be found a statement which describes the main features in the evolution of the synoptic situation over the United Kingdom during the preceding 24 hours together with an indication of the manner in which it is expected to develop.

3. NOTES

(i) Standard of Time.—Greenwich Mean Time is exclusively used throughout the Report.

(ii) Temperature.—On pages 1 and 4 temperature is specified in whole degrees Celsius, negative temperatures being coded by removing the minus sign and adding 50. Equivalent values in degrees Fahrenheit can be obtained by reference to the table printed between these pages. See also note under PPP TT in para. 4 below.

(iii) Adjusted Readings.—Where an instrumental reading is found to be in error and some adjustment is necessary, the adjusted reading is published in brackets thus (59).

(iv) Rainfall Readings in Eire.—The rainfall totals for stations in Eire are for the periods 18h-06h, reported at 0900h. 06h-18h, reported at 2100h.

(v) Readers of the Report who are unacquainted with the method of construction and the use of weather charts are recommended to read "The Practice of Weather Forecasting" which may be purchased from H.M. Stationery Office, 49 High Holborn.

(vi) Correction sheets will be issued weekly. These will contain corrected observations, where appropriate, for all stations with the exception of the following:—stations in Eire, Cape Wrath, Sule Skerry, Mull of Galloway, Kilnsea, Guernsey, Scilly, Hartland Point.

DAILY WEATHER REPORT OF THE BRITISH METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE

No. 277

MONTHLY SUMMARY

GENERALLY VERY COLD WITH SNOW AND SOME FREEZING FOG PATCHES

For JANUARY 1979

A depression moved from near the Faeroes on the 1st to the southern part of the North Sea on the 2nd. A ridge of high pressure then moved eastwards across the country, followed by a low pressure complex on the 4th, which had one centre in the Bay of Biscay and another between Iceland and Norway. A ridge of high pressure lay west to east across the country on the 5th, but this moved southwards on the 6th, allowing fronts to move eastwards from the Atlantic with a generally westerly airstream. On the 10th and 11th a low pressure area moved eastwards across the country giving a cold northerly airstream over most parts. A ridge of high pressure affected most of the country on the 12th and 13th. A warm front moved slowly northeastwards across the United Kingdom on 14th and 15th, followed by a cold front which commenced moving southeastwards across Scotland on the 15th and continued to become slow-moving in the English Channel by the 17th. At the same time an anticyclone developed west of Ireland and moved northeast to Scandinavia on the 18th, establishing a cold easterly airstream over the United Kingdom. On the 19th and 20th a depression moved from the Bay of Biscay into central Ireland and then moved westwards into the Atlantic. At the same time a front moved northwards across Britain. On the 23rd the Scandinavian anticyclone declined and a low pressure area moved from the Southwest Approaches into the North Sea. On the 24th a depression with associated fronts moved southeastwards from near the Shetlands into the North Sea. A secondary depression developed over Scotland on the 25th and moved southwards into Central England on the 26th. A vigorous depression developed west of Scotland on the 27th and moved slowly southeast into the English Channel on the 30th. On the 31st fronts moved southeastwards across the whole of the country.

It was very cold for the first 5 days of the month with widespread frost. This persisted all day on the 1st in most places and was particularly severe on the night of the 1st/2nd when -13°C was recorded at Exeter Airport. Some freezing fog patches formed overnight and some wintry showers also occurred. More prolonged snowfall occurred in southwest England and the Channel Islands on the 4th and 5th. Although level depths of snow were not generally greater than 10-15cm, there was much drifting in strong to gale force easterly winds. Milder weather, with occasional rain and some hill and coastal fog patches, spread to all areas on the 6th and 7th. Colder weather spread southeastwards across the country on the 9th and 10th with sleet or snow or hail showers, and thunderstorms in places. Snow was heavy at times in the north on the 10th. Gale force southerly winds, veering to westerly, occurred in some southern coastal districts on the night of the 9th/10th. It continued very cold during the next few days with wintry showers and clear periods, and some overnight freezing fog patches which persisted all day in a few places on the 13th and 14th. The minimum temperature of -24.6°C recorded at Carnwath (Strathclyde) on the night of the 12th/13th was the lowest temperature recorded anywhere in the United Kingdom since February 1955, and the day maximum of -7°C reported at Glasgow Airport on the 13th was the lowest maximum at this site since January 1940. Milder air with periods of rain spread gradually northeastwards over the whole of the country between 13th and 15th. Fog persisted all day on the 15th in many parts of central and southern England. A cold front moved southeastwards across the country on the 16th and 17th with a mixture of rain, sleet, or snow. Cold easterly winds, occasionally strong to gale force, persisted until the 23rd. Periods of sleet or snow occurred, but amounts were generally small. Fog occurred widely in central and eastern England on the nights of 19th/20th and 20th/21st. It was dense and freezing and persisted all day in places. In the evening of the 22nd some freezing rain affected parts of southern England. On the evening of the 22nd and during the 23rd a belt of snow spread across southern districts. Level snow depths were generally less than 10cm. The cold wintry weather persisted to the end of the month with some further periods of snow or sleet. Some further freezing fog patches occurred in parts of England between the 25th and 28th. On the night of 27th/28th -17°C was reported at Sculthorpe in Norfolk. Strong to gale force southeasterly winds affected western parts of Scotland and Northern Ireland on the 28th, and scattered thunderstorms affected southwest England on the 28th and 29th. Strong northwesterly winds affected western Scotland on the 31st.

Mean temperatures were below average in all districts. They were more than 3°C below average in much of southern Scotland, Northern Ireland, northern England, and central and eastern England. Over Scotland, England and Wales it was the coldest January generally since 1963. At Leuchars (Fife) it was the coldest January since 1940.

Sunshine was slightly below average in the Hebrides. Otherwise it was above average, and more than 150 per cent of average in South Wales and central southern England, and in the Nottingham area.

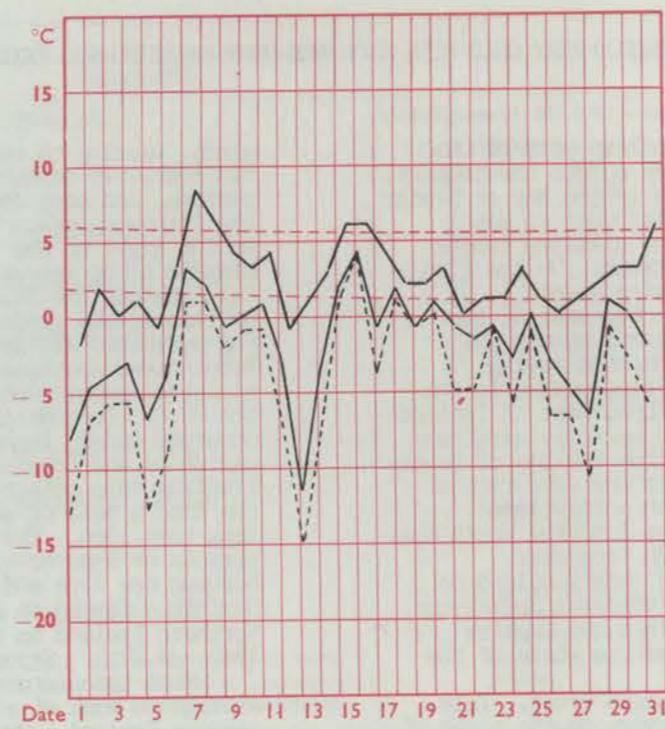

Rainfall, including the water equivalent of snow, was slightly above average in Northern Ireland, the Hebrides, west Wales, and eastern England. It was below average elsewhere, and about half the average in parts of southern Scotland.

MANCHESTER (Ringway)

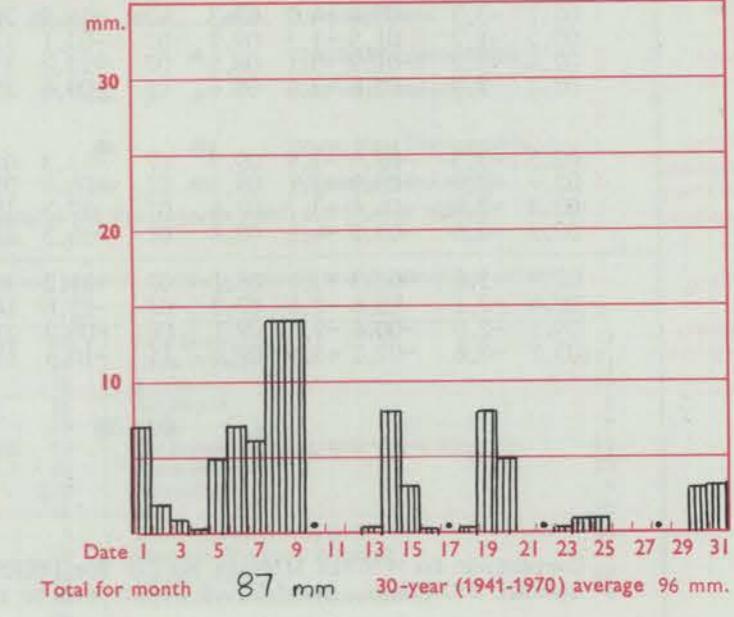

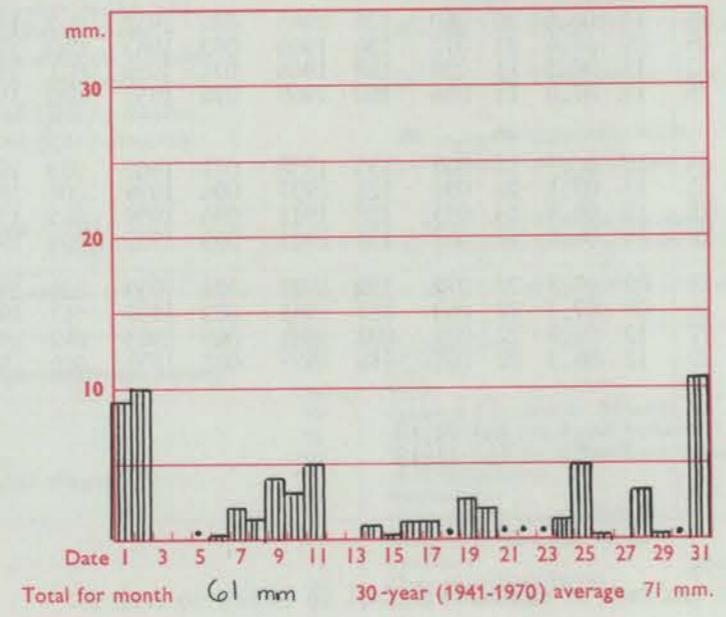

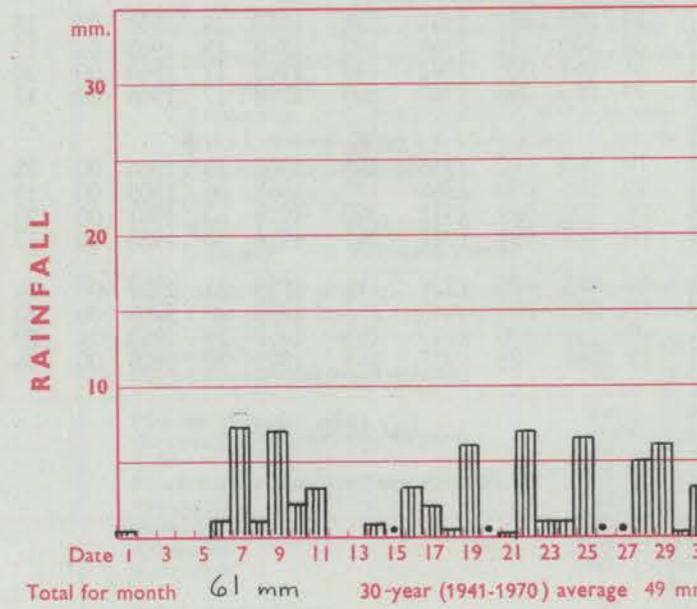

GLASGOW (Abbotsinch)

Maximum temperatures read at 21 h. G.M.T. daily, and minimum temperatures, read at 09 h. G.M.T. daily, are shown in full lines.
Grass minimum temperatures, read at 09 h. G.M.T. daily, are shown by a pecked line. Pecked lines in red show normal values. (1941-1970)
Normals for Kew are based on North Wall readings and may not be absolutely comparable with the daily values plotted above which are obtained from psychrometer measurements.

The rainfall entry made for each day represents the total fall for the 24-hour period beginning at 09 h. G.M.T. on that day. Trace (less than 0.05 mm) is indicated by "●"

CHART OF WEATHER IN PART OF NORTHERN HEMISPHERE

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

The complex trough of low pressure from north Germany to the Southwest Approaches and thence westwards maintained a very cold and unstable easterly airstream across the British Isles. During the past 24 hours the trough has moved rapidly east and slowly south, filling steadily. The recovery of pressure behind it has led to the formation of an anticyclone now centred over Ireland with an associated ridge of high pressure linking with an anticyclone over southern Norway.

During the next 24 hours the anticyclone over Ireland is expected to transfer to northwest France with an associated ridge of high pressure to northern Denmark. A complex depression between Iceland and the Faeroes will bring a southwesterly airstream into northern parts of the British Isles.

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours a high has developed over Southern Ireland and begun to move southeast into France as a small depression with an associated trough has moved from the Faeroes into the North Sea, establishing a northwesterly airflow in most areas of the UK.

During the next 24 hours the anticyclone will continue to move into France but will maintain a ridge into southern Scotland behind the north sea low as that also moves away into the continent. A deepening low east of Iceland is expected to move southeast, bringing frontal troughs to northern Scotland and Northern Ireland.

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours a deep depression southwest of Ireland moved steadily eastwards reaching northwest France by the end of the period. Another low moved from the Faeroes to the Shetlands.

During the next 24 hours little change in pressure distribution is expected with southern Britain remaining in the strong easterly gradient from the French low complex, whilst the other low will remain slow-moving to the north of Shetland.

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours a deep depression over North Biscay remained almost stationary and filled slowly. A ridge of high pressure developed across Northern Ireland, northern England and southern Scotland as a small depression just north of Scotland moved away northeastwards and filled up.

During the next 24 hours the low over Biscay is expected to fill up, whilst the ridge of high pressure across Britain moves slowly southwards to England and Wales as a deep depression off northwest Iceland moves northeast and its associated fronts move into Scotland and Northern Ireland.

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

The depression over North Biscay has moved slowly south and filled up. The associated strong to gale easterly airstream over southern parts of the British Isles has gradually decreased and become variable and light in the ridge of high pressure which has developed across southern England, linking an anticyclone which has formed over Germany with an anticyclone north of Azores. An occluded trough southwards between Norway and Shetland has moved steadily east followed by a southwesterly airstream across Scotland, Northern Ireland and the extreme north of England.

During the next 24 hours pressure will remain low near Iceland and the associated moist southwesterly airstream will extend southward across all parts of the British Isles.

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours the ridge of high pressure over southern England has moved slowly south as a series of fronts associated with an extended area of low pressure north of Iceland have moved steadily east, producing a milder westerly airflow over the whole of Britain.

During the next 24 hours a cold front will move east across the British Isles as the Continental high slips further south. A low now in the Denmark Strait will deepen and move east, bringing a somewhat colder airflow to all parts.

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours low pressure centres near Iceland and in the Norwegian Sea have maintained a strong west to southwesterly air flow over the British Isles and troughs have moved eastwards over all districts. An anticyclone over eastern Europe has remained stationary with a ridge extending over France and Biscay.

During the next 24 hours little change is expected with the depression near Iceland moving slowly east and further troughs in the mainly westerly flow affecting all districts.

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours pressure has remained low to the north of the British Isles and cold fronts with shallow waves moved slowly southeastwards over southern parts with a westerly airflow covering northern districts.

During the next 24 hours a wave depression is expected to move rapidly eastwards from the Atlantic and cross central districts of the British Isles during the night. The westerly airflow is expected to back to strong southwesterly then veer northwesterly on the passage of the wave.

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

A very complex area of low pressure from eastern Iceland to northern Scandinavia maintained a moist westerly airstream over the British Isles with a cold front across north Germany to Azores. A depression east of Iceland moved south to about 200 miles west of the Hebrides inducing a wave on a warm front in the central North Atlantic. This moved rapidly east and is now centred over northeast England.

During the next 24 hours the depression over northeast England will move towards north Denmark and its occluding frontal system, now over eastern England, will move rather quickly east to southern Sweden by tomorrow morning, followed by a cold, unstable northwesterly airstream over all parts of the British Isles.

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours a deep low centred over northwest England has continued moving slowly east to become nearly stationary over the North Sea. The associated occluding fronts have moved steadily east whilst secondary waves on the cold front have moved rather quickly east through the Southwest Approaches.

During the next 24 hours the North Sea low is expected to weaken as it continues to move slowly east maintaining a northerly airstream over the British Isles. A further wave depression is expected to move from west of Shannon into Biscay.

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours a deep low centred over the North Sea moved southeast over North Germany and continued to fill. Strong north to northwesterly winds were maintained over the British Isles which reached storm force in places on the east coast. A shallow low moved over the Irish Sea and filled.

During the next 24 hours the depression over Germany is expected to move eastwards, leaving the British Isles in a northerly airstream. An anticyclone is expected to form west of Ireland.

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours a depression over southern Scandinavia has been almost stationary and filling only slowly while a ridge of high pressure from northwest Scotland to western France was steadily building. The strong north to northwest airflow gradually slackened over eastern parts but persisted over the North Sea.

During the next 24 hours a frontal system is expected to move slowly eastwards from the Atlantic to Ireland and southwest England while a strong ridge of high pressure persists over the remainder of the British Isles.

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

A depression over southern Sweden has remained almost stationary. A ridge of high pressure across the Faeroes to central France has moved very slowly east but a centre of high pressure has formed over France and has steadily intensified. A warm front off the southwest of Ireland to the Bay of Biscay has moved slowly northeast and now extends across central Ireland to western France.

During the next 24 hours the warm front is expected to reach Orkney to central southern England, accompanied by a moist southerly airstream into most parts of the British Isles. The anticyclone over France will move very slowly east.

Issued at midday SUNDAY 14 JANUARY 1979

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours the high over France has been maintained while a ridge over England and eastern Scotland has moved slowly east. A cold front from Iceland to the Azores has been nearly stationary while a wave depression has run rather quickly north.

During the next 24 hours little change is expected with the Atlantic cold front and the Continental high remaining almost stationary. However the high over the Norwegian Sea will move into Scandinavia as the low near Iceland continues its northwards movement.

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours a depression to the northwest of Scotland has moved slowly north with the associated warm front crossing Scotland and Northern Ireland. The cold front became slow-moving over Scotland as a wave depression developed to the west of Ireland and moved northeast. Over the Continent, an anticyclone remained almost stationary over northeast France.

During the next 24 hours the wave depression over Scotland is expected to continue moving northeast, with the cold front moving south across Wales and northern and western districts of England. The anticyclone over France is expected to move south, and an anticyclone in mid-Atlantic move towards northwest Ireland.

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours the ridge of high pressure from Scandinavia to north France declined slowly. A small depression developed over the North Sea and a trough of low pressure moved steadily south over Scotland, northern England and Wales. An anticyclone, developing west of Ireland, moved slowly northeast as a low to the north of Iceland moved away north.

Issued at midday: WEDNESDAY 17 JANUARY 1979

During the next 24 hours the low over the North Sea will move away northwards and fill up and the trough of low pressure over southern England will move south. The anticyclone to the west will develop over northern Scotland and an east to northeast airstream will follow over most other parts of Britain.

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

The high over Scandinavia has extended a ridge through Iceland to Greenland during the last 24 hours. A small circulation south of Ireland has moved slowly south while an associated warm front over France has moved slowly north. A depression west of Gibraltar has moved northwest into Iberia.

During the next 24 hours the Iceland ridge and the Scandinavian high will persist while the depression to the southwest is expected to turn northeast as the associated fronts move into southern Britain.

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

During the past 24 hours a depression moved slowly north and later turned west over Ireland. An associated frontal trough of low pressure moved slowly north over England, Wales and Northern Ireland and a ridge of high pressure developed over France and Iberia. Pressure rose over Scandinavia as the anticyclone near Jan Mayen moved eastwards. Another depression began to deepen to the southwest of Iberia during the day.

During the next 24 hours the depression over Ireland will turn southwest over the eastern Atlantic and the ridge of high pressure over France will move north. The depression off southwest Spain will move steadily northeast towards Biscay with an easterly airstream developing again over Britain.

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

A depression over the German Bight has moved steadily northeast. An associated cold front from the centre to the Bay of Biscay has moved only slowly southeast. A trough behind the front, over northeast England to southwest England, in which a depression had formed over the Midlands, moved southeast and has relaxed. A weak cold front off northwest Scotland has moved slowly southeast into northwest England. A small depression in the Denmark Strait has moved rather quickly southeast and has deepened considerably. During the next 24 hours this depression is expected to continue southeast reaching Northern Ireland by tomorrow morning, preceded by an increasing southerly airstream across all parts of the British Isles.

GENERAL SYNOPTIC DEVELOPMENT

During the past 24 hours a trough from northeast England to south Wales has continued moving slowly east while a deepening depression has approached Britain from the northwest. A developing depression over south France brought southern England into its circulation before moving away eastwards.

During the next 24 hours the depression to the northwest will slow down as it continues its progress southeastwards, extending a trough to Faeroes as it does so.

CHARTS OF WEATHER IN WESTERN EUROPE

During the past 24 hours a depression over Northern Ireland filled a little as it moved slowly east-southeast to the southern North Sea. An anticyclone over southern Scandinavia moved slowly northwards.

During the next 24 hours the low over the southern North Sea will continue to fill as it moves to eastern Europe, whilst a weak ridge of high pressure crosses the British Isles. A complex depression over eastern Iceland will move slowly eastwards, the associated fronts crossing Scotland and Northern Ireland.
