Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It will be a bright start across the east and the northeast of Scotland will remain fine throughout the day. However, cloud and rain will push into the northwest, this turning heavy and persistent in places. Elsewhere, it will be rather cloudy with some drizzle at first, although brighter later and feeling warm and humid.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
Staying unsettled with sunshine and heavy and showers in the north and west, these merging at times to give longer spells of occasionally thundery rain. Drier and brighter across the south and east and becoming very warm and humid in places, especially on Wednesday.
