Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Showery rain and possibly some sleet will soon clear the southeast. It'll then be dry and sunny for most, but it'll feel cold in the strong northerly wind. There will be further showers affecting both the west and east coasts and these will give some sleet or snow in places.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
It will be dry again for most on Sunday with some sunshine although there will be a few showers in the west and along the eastern coast. It will feel a little less cold as the wind eases. On Monday a band of rain will sweep southeastwards across the country.
