Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a cloudy and increasingly windy day, with gales possible in many parts by Wednesday evening, with perhaps severe gales around exposed northern coasts. There'll be some light showers across England and Wales at times, and outbreaks of rain across Scotland. More persistent rain will spread into other western areas late in the day.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:
Rain will clear from central and southeastern parts on Thursday morning then cold and windy with blustery snow showers in the north. Friday will be windy and will feel bitterly cold, with some sunshine at times, but also snow showers for many.
