Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Rather cloudy for many but with sunny spells too, best of these in the south and southwest. Scattered, locally heavy, showers continuing, especially in the north and parts of the Midlands. A cool northerly wind, especially in the east. A dry night with clear spells for many and chilly for many.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
Mostly dry with variable cloud and sunny spells for both Wednesday and Thursday. Some showers, locally heavy, but these lighter and less frequent on Thursday. Breezy around coasts, particularly in the northeast where local gales are possible. Chilly nights, especially in the west, with a touch of frost possible.
