++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Much of the UK will be rather cloudy throughout with patchy rain, whilst the southwest should see the best of drier and brighter conditions. It will be breezy in northwestern UK, with increasingly heavy rainfall here clearing to showers late in the afternoon.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Wet and windy on Monday, with all parts seeing at least some rain, but particularly in the exposed west, which may also see gales. Remaining rain will clear the southeast early on Tuesday, to leave sunshine and occasionally heavy showers, with these showers turning wintry on northern hills. Frosts should return for many overnight into Wednesday.
