Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A cold start in most places once again, with a fairly widespread frost. During the day, northern and central Scotland will be fairly cloudy with intermittent rain or snow. Elsewhere, it will be mostly dry with some hazy sunshine, although becoming cloudier during the afternoon. The far southwest may see a little rain by evening.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

On Monday, northern Scotland seeing further intermittent rain or snow. Elsewhere mainly dry with some hazy sunshine, but the far south of England probably cloudier and more unsettled. On Tuesday, becoming more unsettled generally with outbreaks of rain in many areas. Often feeling rather cold.
