++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Today will be largely dry with warm sunshine and light winds. Some cloud will spread in over the east coast though. Northwest Scotland and northwest N.Ireland will become increasingly cloudy and breezy, and that cloud will bring some rain across northern and western Scotland overnight. Elsewhere will be mostly clear and cool tonight with fog patches developing.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
Largely dry and rather warm with sunny spells, once early fog patches clear tomorrow, although light rain will move southeastwards across northern Scotland. Broken cloud should allow some sunny spells on Sunday, but thicker cloud will bring some light rain to central Scotland.
