Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Eastern parts will see a dry albeit rather cloudy start on Wednesday. Meanwhile, it will be wet and windy in the west, and through the day, rain and strong winds will spread to most places. Some heavy bursts are likely across southern parts as a result, but the the far north of Scotland should remain sunny.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

The weather will be changeable on Thursday and Friday with a mixture of sunshine and blustery showers. The heaviest and most frequent showers are likely in the north and west, whilst southern and eastern parts will see the best of any sunshine.
