

National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment

A deepening depression is expected to move northeastwards passing to the northwest of Scotland on Wednesday. The associated frontal system will swing quickly eastwards into the area on Wednesday bringing gales with gusts of 50-60 mph widely and perhaps 70 mph over more exposed locations.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Wind

Valid from 12:00 on Wed, 09th Dec 2015 until 23:50 on Wed, 09th Dec 2015

Southwesterly winds will increase on Wednesday afternoon across parts of northern England and southern and central Scotland, with gales developing widely, locally severe. The gales are expected to last through the afternoon and evening but should ease by the early hours of Thursday.

Be aware that some low level disruption looks likely along with difficult driving conditions with the combination of rain and strong winds.

This warning has been updated to include more of southern and eastern Scotland.
