

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Sunday 10 Jul 2011

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Another day of sunshine and showers, with the showers generally fewer and further between when compared with the weekend. However, in northeastern parts these showers will be a little more frequent, occasionally turning heavy and perhaps thundery. Temperatures should rise a little above average for July in lengthy sunny spells, especially towards the southeast of the country.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

The theme of sunshine and showers should continue, with the showers mainly light, but perhaps persisting locally as they become slow-moving in the generally light winds. Temperatures will be near-average for most, but occasionally rise a little above normal in some southern areas.

(C) Crown Copyright 2011. Published by the Met Office.