++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A chilly, bright start in the north but cloudier further south with early rain in the far southeast. This rain will soon clear, then most places will have a dry day with sunny intervals, but a few scattered showers will develop, these most likely in northern and eastern parts.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

A band of persistent rain with some heavy bursts, will spread across the UK from the southwest on Tuesday, reaching Scotland overnight. Remaining unsettled on Wednesday with only limited bright spells as rain or showers become widespread. The showers may be heavy and thundery at times.
