++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Starting misty and foggy in some areas, particularly in the southwest, but this should gradually clear to leave a mostly fine, dry and warm day with sunny spells and occasional cloud for most. Coastal mist, however, may continue to affect some southern and western shorelines. Winds will be light and variable everywhere, with light sea breezes developing.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

Most places staying dry and warm with sunny spells during Friday and Saturday. Winds will be light again on Friday, but will strengthen into a fresh southeasterly breeze by Saturday, with also an increasing threat of showers developing in the far southwest later.
