Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:

A misty start for some, but then a mainly dry with sunny spells and a chance of showers. The showers will be more frequent in the northwest and could be locally heavy at times. There will be a continuing risk of thundery showers in far southeast.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Unsettled with sunshine and showers on Thursday, with these showers less intense than on Wednesday, but still quite sharp at times. Cloudier conditions with some rain or drizzle should reach the west later, gradually moving east during Friday. Drier and brighter conditions should follow this rain, along with isolated showers.
