Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Through the day rain will spread north-eastwards across the UK. The rain will turn heavy in places, affecting nearly all parts come the end of the day, although Northern Scotland should stay dry and bright. Behind it, some sunny spells and blustery showers will follow from the south-west into the afternoon, but it will feel humid.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Saturday sees sunny spells and heavy, thundery showers across the country, accompanied by some very unseasonably strong winds particularly in the south. By Sunday, it's a similar story, although the winds will have eased and the showers will be fewer and further between.
