Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A grey, misty start for many, and parts of northern and western Scotland will remain dull and damp for much of the day. However, elsewhere, it should brighten with some sunny spells developing and it should feel pleasantly warm in just light winds.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

A mild start on Friday, and some warm sunny spells can be expected again for the south. However, colder weather will spread from the north during the day. Saturday will be a much colder and windy day with a mixture of sunshine and showers, these becoming increasingly wintry from the north.
