Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be yet another showery day for much of the UK tomorrow with some heavy showers in places, especially the east during the afternoon. There will be some sunshine between the showers though, making it feel quite warm, especially as westerly winds are expected to stay light.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:
The weather is likely to remain generally unsettled as we start the new working week with further sunshine and showers, but many places should miss the showers on Monday. Winds will stay light and become northwesterly, and temperatures will remain close to normal.
