Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a dull and murky start to the day, but any mist or fog should clear quickly to allow some sunny spells to develop. These will become more widespread across England, Wales and eastern Scotland during the afternoon, although cloud will tend to thicken across Northern Ireland.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Thursday will see early rain across Northern Ireland and Scotland, with a few spots across Wales. This will clear to give a largely fine day for many, although it'll turn windy in the north. By Friday it will become wet and windy in the west, with scattered showers elsewhere and fresher.
