

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Sunday 20 Feb 2011

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Mostly dry, but rather cloudy and misty, with perhaps a little light rain at times in eastern Britain and with northern Scotland seeing the best of any sunshine. Persistent rain moving into the western reaches of the UK around dusk, edging eastwards overnight to reach all but eastern Britain, perhaps giving snow over northern hills around dawn.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

On Monday, the rain and northern hill snow continuing towards eastern parts, gradually followed from the southwest by a second band of heavy rain. After a drier interlude, Tuesday will see further rain arriving from the west with brisk southwesterly winds developing.

(C) Crown Copyright 2011. Published by the Met Office.