

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Monday 06 Aug 2007

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Outbreaks of rain across northwest Scotland will gradually die out. Otherwise all areas will have sunny spells, and a scattering of showers. Most of the showers in the north will be light, but heavy showers are possible across south Wales and southern England. It will feel cool and fresh.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
It will remain rather changeable with sunshine and showers, though some places may remain dry. One or two of the showers may be on the heavy side. Temperatures will remain near or below normal, but it should feel warm at times in sunshine and generally light winds.

(C) Crown Copyright 2007. Published by the Met Office.