Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Rain across northern parts of the UK becoming confined to northeast Scotland and rather cold here. There will be brighter and drier conditions further south, extending to central areas, and the northeast later. Thickening cloud bringing rain to the far southwest in the evening.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
Patchy, mainly light, rain in the west spreading northeastwards Saturday, possibly heavy at times over higher ground. Brighter, drier conditions towards the southeast. Sunday should be windier with more persistent rain pushing eastwards, heavy at times. Clearer, cooler and showery conditions will follow from the west.
