Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Most areas will be dry and settled on Saturday with plenty of warm sunshine developing, after a chilly, and in places frosty and foggy start. However, some coastal parts are likely to remain cooler, and the far north and northwest of Scotland will be cloudy with some patchy rain.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Southern and eastern parts of England will have another dry, mostly sunny and very warm day on Sunday. However, wet and rather windy weather will move southeast across Scotland and Northern Ireland. Monday will be much cooler and cloudier everywhere, with some showers feeding into northern parts in a northwesterly breeze.
