Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Today will generally be cloudier and cooler than yesterday. Western areas will hang on to the sunshine the longest, before turning cloudier as rain spreads across central parts. A milder night then follows, with extensive cloud cover apart from the far south. Rain in central and northern parts will turn lighter and patchier.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:
Cloud and further rain across the central parts will be lighter and patchier than today, with the best of the sunshine in the far north and south. Rain easing on Friday with many places then dry with sunny spells but some heavy showers developing in southern areas.
