Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Today will be a predominantly cloudy day across the country, although with some sunshine in the far north-east at first. Patchy light rain will spread north-eastwards, with one or two brighter spells developing in the south later. Overnight, rain, heavy at times will move north-eastwards over Scotland but cloud and rain will slowly clear from the south.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:

Wednesday will be generally drier and brighter than today especially further east, but with rain and strong winds in the west. Thursday will be breezy and unsettled, with plenty of sunny spells but also scattered heavy, and perhaps thundery showers.
