Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Northern Ireland and Scotland will be off to a wet and windy start, but it will be dry elsewhere with fog patches. These will clear quickly, and the rain will spread across the rest of the UK. It may turn brighter later, with sunny spells between heavy showers, but it will stay very windy with gales in the west.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Monday will be another day of strong winds and heavy showers, perhaps with some hail and thunder. On Tuesday there will be sunny spells and fewer showers, but there will be more persistent rain arriving overnight, with gales likely into Wednesday.
