

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Friday 02 Dec 2011

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Northwestern parts of the UK will see frequent, heavy showers blown in on a strong westerly wind, with further snow likely for the mountains of Scotland. Elsewhere it will be a largely fine day, with brisk westerly winds, although showers are possible in western parts and a few isolated outbreaks of rain are likely across southern England.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Further rain is likely in the far south for a time on Sunday. Otherwise a mix of sunshine and blustery showers dominating. These showers are likely to turn to snow over higher ground, and increasingly to lower levels in the north on Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2011. Published by the Met Office.