

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Friday 08 May 2009

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Drier and brighter with sunny spells in the south and east, however, a band of more prolonged rain will spread from southern Scotland into northern England and Wales during the day. Plenty of showers continuing across Scotland and some of these will be locally heavy with a risk of thunder.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:

Many parts of the UK will see a dry day with sunny spells, a few scattered showers possible for Scotland. The band of rain will linger across parts of northern England, weakening overnight. Most places will be dry on Monday with sunny spells, although rain pushing into southernmost counties.

(C) Crown Copyright 2009. Published by the Met Office.