Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Dry for many tomorrow but cloudier than today with limited bright spells. It will be particularly cold and dreary across the southeast with some patchy rain and drizzle too. Rain will arrive in the northwest later, turning quite breezy here too.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

Rain in the northwest will move southeastwards on Friday. This will quickly be followed by clearer, showery conditions. Some of these showers will be wintry, particularly over northern hills. It will then be a dry and frosty start to Saturday before more rain spreads southeastwards. Blustery showers soon follow into the northwest, these are likely to be wintry once again.
