Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Many places dry with plenty of warm sunshine and light winds, the exception being western Scotland which will be rather cloudy with further outbreaks of rain. Also, isolated showers may later develop across central and southern England, but many places staying dry. Most of the UK continuing dry and fine overnight.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

Dry and fine for much of Britain during Tuesday morning, but scattered heavy showers in the west will gradually move eastwards during the late afternoon and evening. On Wednesday, occasional rain or heavy showers will continue to move eastwards, with brighter and drier conditions following in the west.
