

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Thursday 01 May 2008

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A generally dry start across the UK on Friday. Cloud will develop bringing a scattering of showers by the middle of the day. Some of the showers heavy with hail and thunder, particularly across the more northern areas. Turning quite warm in any afternoon sunshine.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
Cloud and outbreaks of rain will spread slowly from the west through the weekend, So generally dry on Saturday in the East and turning rather warm in places with a moderate southeasterly breeze. Sunday generally cloudy with outbreaks of rain in the southerly wind. But where any brighter spells occur it will feel rather warm.

(C) Crown Copyright 2008. Published by the Met Office.