Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Warm sunny spells but also scattered heavy showers, some of these may contain hail with the odd rumble of thunder, especially towards southwestern areas. Some eastern parts of the country may remain mostly dry. Rather breezy, especially in the south.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
Sunshine and showers on Tuesday, these most frequent in the northwest. Longer periods of rain may develop in the south, with most of the showers elsewhere dying away later. Outbreaks of rain in central parts of the UK on Wednesday, with some heavy bursts possible. Brightening up further south and feeling increasingly warm. Central and northern Scotland remaining mostly fine.
