Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Rather cloudy across much of England and Wales, with further outbreaks of mainly light rain and drizzle. Breezy and brighter across Scotland and Northern Ireland, however showers are likely to affect northern and eastern Scotland, turning increasingly wintry as the day progresses. Generally on the chilly side, and feeling much colder across western Scotland than on Thursday.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Rain may linger across southern England on Saturday, but otherwise a mixture of sunshine and showers, these most frequent in the north and west. Showers will turn wintry at times in the north and there will be a risk of widespread overnight frosts.
